

Rosa Parks refuses to give up her seat to a white man on a bus in segregated Montgomery, Alabama. Montreal erupts in riots after Rocket Richard is suspended. Johnson and Johnson introduces the first No Tears baby shampoo. Disneyland opens with one million visitors in the first seven weeks. The Polio Vaccination campaign begins in Schools across Canada and the US. Ray Kroc opens the first McDonalds. James Dean is killed in his 550 Porsche Spyder. The Edmonton Eskimos win the 43rd Grey Cup at Empire Stadium in Vancouver. Northwest Tank Lines raises its red, white and black colours for the very first time. Jerry Lee Lewis releases Great Balls of Fire. The Warsaw Pact is signed. Sports Illustrated is first published.

---

The year was 1955 when Northwest Tank Lines first entered into the highly competitive world of transport and began setting new standards of excellence in business ethics, road safety and environmental stewardship. These standards continue to this day with industry-leading initiatives like proud partnership in both the Responsible Care and TransCAER programs, and one of the most rigorous ongoing driver protocol programs in the business. Northwest Tank Lines takes great pride in these leadership initiatives and maintaining its reputation for outstanding corporate citizenship. Needless to say, it's a very proud 55-year history. But better yet, it's only the beginning.

